

OMAHA DEFEATS WAYNE WILDCATS IN OPENING GAME

Carl Baade Leads Omaha Five To Victory

FINAL SCORE 26-22

Omaha University won their first basketball game of the season last Friday evening from Wayne at Wayne. The Cardinals upset the dope bucket by defeating the Wayne Wildcats 26-22.

Carl Baade played an outstanding game at a forward position for the Cardinals, and set the pace for an Omaha victory early in the game, although at times they had to fight desperately to retain their small lead.

Harold Johnk, the 210-pound center who drops back to a guard position after making the jump, and Leo Pearey played a bang-up defensive game for the Cardinals, and often forced the Wayne Wildcats to shoot from outside the foul line.

It was the first encounter for both schools, and both teams were ragged on the offense. The Cardinals were doped to lose their game to Wayne because of the lack of sufficient reserve material, but the team, playing their first game under their new coach, Johnny Baker, turned the tables on the Wildcats to give them their ninth straight defeat in basketball at the hands of the Cardinals.

Tells Story Of Early Far West

Principal J. G. Masters of Central High school realistically described the story of John Coulter's Discovering the Yellowstone and His Whirlwind Escape From the Blackfeet at a special assembly in the auditorium Wednesday morning, December 18, at 10 o'clock.

According to Mr. Masters, the tale is an actual happening which took place in the early days of the Far West and is authentic in every respect. The story was taken from Mr. Masters' book, "Tales and Stories of the Old West," which he recently had published.

President Rowland Haynes introduced Masters to nearly one hundred students and teachers. A large detailed map was used to illustrate the story.

Extend Dr. West's Leave of Absence

Dr. V. Royce West, head of the foreign language department, has been granted an extension on his leave of absence to include the second semester, according to an announcement made by President Rowland Haynes Wednesday.

Dr. West is now on the lecture staff of the University of Heidelberg in Germany. He will be the official representative of the University of Omaha at the 550th jubilee of the University of Heidelberg to be held in June.

The French club, "Le Cercle Francais," held a party and Christmas program at the women's faculty building, Wednesday afternoon, December 18.

Gateway Staff Receives Money

The prize money of five dollars for the best editorial, feature and news story for each semester has also been awarded. Those who received prizes were: Martin Speckter, ex '36, former managing editor, who received three prizes of five dollars each; Franklin Buxton, '35, former Editor of the Gateway; Macy Baum, '37, former news editor; and Cecil DeLong, '35, former contributing editor.

Members of the staffs received approximately six cents an inch for stories. The money is the surplus from the paper.

Those who received checks were: Randolph M. Claassen, Duane Butler, Franklin Buxton, Rosella Prall, Joe Greenstone, Alice Wear, Glen Cunningham, Martin Speckter, Marion Earhart, June Corkin, Macy Baum, Virginia Lee Long, Betty Lou Stringer, Cecil DeLong, John Pearson, George Knipprath, Morris Fisher, Fannie Witkin, Maxine Sunderman, Philip Steele, Harold Kort, Ellen Hartman, Elbert Holsington, Fran Nelson, Bob Norelius.

Sigma Tau Delta To Honor Alumni At Christmas Tea

One hundred invitations have been issued for the Sigma Tau Delta Christmas tea, to be held Friday, December 27, at the home of Mrs. Mildred M. Gearhart.

The tea will honor former members of the fraternity who will be returning to Omaha for the holidays.

Red tapers and red roses will be used on the tea table. The committee in charge of the tea includes Edythe Grobmann, Gladys Reynolds and Erval McIlvaine.

Schedule Debates For Omaha Squads

The Omaha University debate squad is preparing for two tournaments which will be held in January.

One contest will be held on January 11, at the Northwest Missouri Teacher's College, Maryville, Missouri. The other will take place on January 24 at the University of South Dakota at Vermillion, South Dakota. On January 25, the squad will meet the University of Morningside in Sioux City, Iowa.

One men's and one women's team from Omaha will participate in each contest.

Board to Receive Applications For Gateway's Staff

Applications for positions on next semester's Gateway staff will be due Tuesday, January 7, it was announced Wednesday by Dr. William D. Maclay, temporary chairman of the board of student publications.

Students may apply for the following positions: Editor, managing editor, business manager, contributing editor and news editor.

Application blanks may be secured from the members of the board and they must be filed with the board not later than noon, January 7. The board will meet at that time to select the staff.

YEARBOOK STAFF APPLICATIONS IN AT NOON TODAY

Board Extends Time
So That More
May Apply

TO SELECT NINE

The board of student publications will receive applications for the yearbook staff positions until noon today, according to an announcement made Wednesday by Dr. William D. Maclay, temporary chairman of the board.

"We have lengthened the period of application for the sole reason that there were an insufficient number of applications filed with the board to fill the staff and the board felt that the complete staff should be selected at one time," Dr. Maclay said.

It was originally announced that applications for positions on the staff would be due Monday noon, December 16, and that the board would select a staff at a meeting the same afternoon. The board met Monday, but found that too few applications had been submitted. The board will meet again Friday afternoon and will choose the complete staff to edit the University's annual.

Council Plans To Install Amplifier

Plans for the installation of a recording amplifier in Jacobs' Hall, which will be used for noon dances and dancing on Friday evenings when no other dance is scheduled, have been made by the Student Council.

The first amplifier has been on trial during this week in the gymnasium. It was installed on Monday and was tried out during the noon hour. Other trials will be made immediately following the Christmas holidays.

Plans had been made to try all of the machines after the holidays, but arrangements were made to install the first one this week.

Tests were made for sound effects.

Kenneth Turner, '36, is in charge of the installation.

Buy Basketball Tickets Today!

Season tickets for the seven home basketball games may be purchased either from Sed Hartman, Johnny Baker, or members of Feathers. The sale closes today. The season tickets are selling for one dollar to students of the University, and to those not affiliated with the school for one dollar and fifty cents.

Individual admissions for the games are forty cents, with the saving of almost fifty per cent by buying the season ticket.

BOYNE TO SPEAK
"Oral and Plastic Surgery" will be Dr. H. N. Boyne's subject for his talk at the regular meeting of the Pre-med Club at 10:00 this morning. He will illustrate his lecture with slides. Dr. Boyne received his degree of dentistry at Creighton and is a former student of Omaha University.

Film of German Scenes at Party

A four-reel film of German winter sports and scenery was shown last night at the party sponsored by the University's German club in Jacobs' Hall. The program also included a Christmas story, read by Lando Otto; a short play entitled "A Bavarian Christmas," given by members of the German classes; and vocal solos by Ida Gitlin and Lloyd Lee.

Following the program, inexpensive gifts were exchanged by the members of the club and light refreshments served. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing German games and dancing.

Guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Val Peter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gloe, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Schmidt, Mr. Karl Klein and Mrs. Sven Isaacssen.

The film was secured through Mr. Val Peter, Omaha German consul and editor of the Omaha Daily Tribune. A small admission fee to the party was charged to cover the cost of showing the film.

Former Graduate Presents Books To Uni Library

Mrs. F. H. Cole, a graduate of the University of Omaha during the presidency of Dr. Jenkins, has presented the University library with a collection of over two hundred volumes of social science books from her private library. The collection includes books of history, psychology, sociology and political science.

Following her graduation from the University, Mrs. Cole served as an extension instructor in sociology. Mrs. Cole has given a valuable collection of art objects and rare volumes to the Joslyn Memorial, in addition to many books which she has presented to the Omaha Public Library.

Sports Writers Choose Pearey

Leo Pearey, sensational senior fullback for the Cardinals this fall, was given honorable mention on the Little All-American team, which is chosen each year by the outstanding sports writers throughout the country. The team is composed of the outstanding stars from the smaller colleges and universities.

Besides attaining this national recognition, Pearey was placed on the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Association team, the Kearney All-Opponent team, and the North Central Conference team.

Honor Cardinal Squad at Dinner

The Cardinal football squad was entertained last evening at a banquet at the Elks' Club. Dr. William H. Thompson, chairman of the faculty committee on athletics, presided as toastmaster.

President Rowland Haynes, Coach Sed Hartman, and Mr. Hird Stryker and Mr. J. E. Davidson, members of the board of regents, were the principal speakers.

Short addresses were also given by the graduating members of the varsity squad. The seniors are Noel King, William Nelson, Kenneth Turner, Loren Gammon, Leo Pearey and Howard Sorensen.

WAYNE CAGERS MEET CARDINALS IN SECOND TILT

Baker's Five Hopes To Repeat Last
Friday's Win

TIPOFF AT 8:30

The Wayne Wildcats will invade the Central High Gym at 8:30 this evening in an attempt to avenge the Cardinals' victory of a week ago at Wayne.

Omaha University, led by the lanky Carl Baade, discovered that Friday, the 13th, was a lucky day for the Redbirds, and they intend to repeat this week by handing the Wildcats another defeat.

The Wildcats boast of an all-veteran team this year with just as many promising reserves, and they will be in top shape, seeking revenge for their first defeat.

The Cardinals, under the tutelage of Johnny Baker, have spent the week putting a punch in the offense, and in building a more powerful defense.

The game is a toss-up, for neither team is favored. Season tickets are on sale for the seven home games for one dollar, and individual tickets may be purchased at the door for forty cents.

The probable starting lineup:
Wayne Normal      Omaha U.
Dickey      f.      Nelson
Hayes      f.      Baade
Lingerfelter      c.      Johnk
Morris      g.      Pearey
Peters      g.      Boldenow

BARB INTEREST

Last Saturday night the Barbs gave a dance. This was the first time in the history of the school that the Barbs have attempted to take an interest in social affairs. In the past their interest, when it was aroused, has been almost exclusively on political issues. Unless there is a change of spirit, the organization is apt to return to the standards of the past.

It appears that all of the enterprise of that organization is being carried on the shoulders of a very few individuals who are undertaking to do not only the thinking for the organization, but all the work as well. We believe that an active Barb organization would be of great benefit to the University and are sure that others, including the Greeks, are of the same sentiment, but at the same time we hate to see a few individuals shouldering the whole responsibility for a group of this size.

ON THE PASSING OF 1935

Each year brings new and startling discoveries, new philosophies and new ideals. Leaders for the future are born, and leaders of the day pass on. Greater glories and achievements mark the progress of man and the world. War and peace bid for the rule of the earth. As the end of the year is neared, another page in the history of the world is written in the book of time, a page of victory and defeat, of crime and disaster.

The year 1935 has seen the culmination of a long, bitter struggle between two nations in a war which involved the powers of the world and threatened to wholly undermine the organization and purpose of the League of Nations. Guns have been fired and blood shed once more in the Orient. Economic security has been partially restored in the nations where monetary instability, unemployment and an inability to cope with these critical situations have endured for the last six years.

Will Rogers, a man beloved of millions; Huey Long, the prophet of the Share-the-Wealth plan; and Wiley Post, a world famous flier, have passed on to their reward. Boulder Dam, the greatest engineering feat of the twentieth century, has been completed and dedicated. In less than twenty-four hours enough data was collected for three years of scientific research when a successful flight was made into the stratosphere by two men. The China Clipper has built an aerial bridge to the Orient from America, and a five-day flight has been inaugurated between New York City and Rio De Janeiro.

Murders, kidnappings, prison breaks, gang wars and robberies have been flashed daily across the newspaper headlines. The G-men have been partially successful in the war which they are waging against crime.

Nebraska has been the center of the nation's sympathy when the Republican river flooded, carrying many people to a horrible

Thru The Keyhole

A suggestion to Hesler....when you and Jeanette are "talking" on the divan, please pull down the shade....also Thornton and Johnson swear on a stack of Bibles that all they ever do is match pennies....we hear that Ashwood went ahead and rounded up some fancy dates for the holidays and then got some sad news from Wichita, which changed her mind about the whole affair....by the way for those who wanted to know....Cooper isn't tied down to anyone or anything....who is this gal named Faulk that Kozak thinks is a queen? ? ? ....we wonder who is going to win this battle between Leigh and Nelson....for the right to date Amy....it is definite fact that Coulter and "Dex" are going steady for good....Roddy has only seen two moustaches that appeal to her aesthetic nature, and one of them is on Sklenicka....Butts is playing Santa Claus this week at one of the downtown stores (adv. not allowed)....Kenny Hargrove wishes it known that he is not a Phi Sig!....for the formals we suggest the following dates....Gamma: Leigh-Tommy; Phillips-"Nelly"; "Tony"-Crawford; Rogers-Minnie; Sklenicka-"Marky"....Pi O: Keaton-"Nelly"; Leigh-Amy; Max-Cordy; Johnson-Thornton; Lil-Hoefner.

By the way, what are all these secret signs that some Theta's have lately?....have they any meaning or is it just in fun?....it seems that Harrington-Britton are really getting so that if you see one, you always see the other....even Crawford had to come to school to see Tony, and he was supposed to be working, too....the only bit of gossip that we didn't get this week of any importance was the gossip Miss Diamond told in her Orchestis class the other nite....well no more, so Merry Xmas, etc.

ON THE MAGAZINE RACK

By LLOYD L. LEE

Dr. Koch and her art students will find interesting a new book in the library on the study of the psychology of perception in art, written by Guy T. Buswell, professor of educational psychology at the University of Chicago. The title of the book is How People Look at Pictures. The apparatus for photographing eye movements is exceedingly complicated, and the study, though technical, is very interesting.

Students who like fictional biography, but especially those who read French, will find Voltaire, by Andre Maurois, appealing and sympathetic. Last semester the Humanities students enjoyed reading The Life of Shelley, by this same author, but still more enjoyable is this biography of a Frenchman by a Frenchman in the French language. This combination makes for a better understanding of the philosophy of this great Frenchman. The vocabulary is not difficult. Students with a moderate knowledge of the language can easily read the book.

Fictional biography is replacing to a great extent the older type of biography, which is so stilted and factual. The former gives the author a chance to interweave his imagination with the facts of life. And do we not like this? Who of us are not romanticists? * * * * *

ONE HUNDRED NOTABLE BOOKS—1935

The New Republic for December 11 has a list of the hundred books of 1935 that have the most importance for our own times. Biography, memoirs, fiction, poetry, criticism, science, philosophy and other classifications are included in this list. The works of many of the established writers are present. There is The House of Earth, by Pearl Buck; Pylon, by William Faulkner; Young Joseph, by Thomas Mann; Murder in the Cathedral, by T. S. Eliot; Thought and Character, by William James; The Nature of Capitalist Crisis, by John Strachey, not to mention many others.

Students, who would like something to read over the holidays, will find many of these one hundred books in the school library. To mention a few of them, there are: Life With Father, by Clarence Day; The House of Earth, by Pearl Buck; Vain of Iron, by Ellen Glasgow; Claudius the God, by Robert Graves; and The Road to War, by Walter Millis. Then there is the Seven Pillars of Wisdom, by T. E. Lawrence, which contains so much secretive information of post-war England and Arabia that the author forbade the book's publication until after his death. He died last spring.

Miss Inez Chesnut, the University librarian, who keeps a list of hundreds of such books which she hopes the school will purchase some day, agrees with the editors of the New Republic that the "best" books, the "eternal" books, will have to be chosen by posterity.

death in its muddy, swirling, mad waters, and leaving in its wake devastated fields and homeless families. Hurricanes and earthquakes have wrought destruction along both the seacoasts.

What new discoveries, great leaders and disasters will 1936 bring?

You, Me, the Gatepost

By FRAN NELSON

Good morning, good forenoon,
good noon, good afternoon, good evening, good night—my, what a day!

Months shorten into weeks,
weeks into days, days into more daze and finally the big day is rumored to be just around the corner like prosperity, but like prosperity it never comes to some of us.

When it was first announced that there was a surplus in The Gateway account to be apportioned among the members of last semester's staff, there were many bright and smiling faces dashing in and out of The Gateway office to the tune of "I got five dollars" (maybe more in the mail—
in the female it was the same tune, but a different key—rather a lilting soprano, I would say).
But, alas, no more do we hear those happy pipings which floated hither and yon from the windows and the doors of The Gateway office. It was too much to expect.
It seems that there was a little matter of tuition that some of us had overlooked, and here's how it all came about:

Last Monday morning there was a distinct (later found to be stinking) rumor afloat that the checks had arrived and were in the hands of Dr. Maclay (one of those tall dark men which Madam Iskibubble, the gypsy seer, warned me about). A couple of our erstwhile editors dashed madly to the Ames street catastrophe and, without so much as a quiver of a harelip, confronted the tall dark man, surrounded in his lair by his instruments of torture, and these two good men and true were informed that the checks would be mailed out in the next day or so. Now it wasn't the mailing that did the dirty work—it was that "so." What "so"? Elementary, my dear Whatso. So what?

So this—the staff went into a huddle and decided that if an account of the checks was published, no mention of the amounts would be made—this, with the idea that a penny held out is a penny spent during Christmas vacation. But,
like the House That Jack Built, even this happy thought went fluttering out the window; for someone made a horrible discovery. All checks were applied on tuition, except in cases where there was a scholarship involved or some faint-hearted person had turned traitor to the paper and paid his tuition, but these cases were quite rare.

So, now you know why all these sad people are milling around the campus without a single hearty and gladsome Noel. Now it seems that the worst has come to worse,
and it will be the Bursar's office that has the Merry Christmas, and not The Gateway staff. So, in wishing you all a Merry Xmas, I will utter that little word that means so much this time of year—
NUTS!!

Gamma to Open
Formal Season

One hundred and fifty bids have been issued for the Gamma Sigma Omicron formal dance to be held in the Paxton hotel ball room, Saturday evening, December 21.

The guests of honor will be Dean Rene H. Stevens, Mrs. Mildred M. Gearhart and Dr. Lyman
H. Harris.

Elizabeth Bostwick is chairman of the dance. She is assisted by Betty Minter, Gertrude Johnson
and Marjorie Johnson. Warren
Ritchie's orchestra will play.

It's In The Cards

By LEO PEAREY

The other day First-Down wandered into Mr. Maxwell's Spanish class. The prof happened to be talking about "las perros"; well, la pucha, doesn't seem to be that kind of dog. So, she put up a howl. Mr. Maxwell, of course, wondered what had been in his morning cup of coffee, but after investigating he found that the howl wasn't an echo and kindly but firmly expelled the madam
from the room. The only trouble caused was the sudden awakening of Bob Frink in the back row, so mark up an A-plus for the pooch.

"Basco" Gammon, the "Terrible Destroyer," sent a message after a date for the Barb dance the other evening; you can readily see why,
if you know how clumsy the poor
guy is, but he made one mistake,
he sent Tyler. You know the rest
—poor little Loren had to dance
on his own feet.

Ivan Offalitch (Noel King) and Issy Scratchalot (Mel Boldenow)
are wearing their fingers to the bone lately, rubbing certain spots on the anatomy of their respective person, trying to pacify a certain ailment, which can't be described as love. Though 'tis a wonder!

She's No Sissy

There's Virginia Lowe, who can't resist feeding hungry athletes, but who also won't be called a sissy without getting sore. It seems that Riggins and Crawford were having a little argument over which was the more delicate color, pink or black. Of course, the arguments were very detailed and descriptive. Virginia, who was walking by at an inopportune time, thought they were talking to her and slapped Willie Kulper's face. (Willie was also present.) Willie never hits a woman, so he called her a big sissy. She just can't take it!

Did we get a good laugh at Johnk and Nommie Sorensen sitting in the front row at the dancing recital Wednesday? Boy, boys, even though you do wear glasses,
Miss Diamond's dancing classes are very uplifting and refined, portraying grace and balance—not burlesque.

Bakers Play Bridge

The best "crack" of the year
was given verbal airing the other evening while Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Baker were playing bridge.
Mrs. Baker opened the contract with two no trumps. Johnny raised her to three no-trumps.
After going set about six tricks redoubled, Mr. Baker said, "I meant I didn't have any trump and when we were doubled I felt sorry for the guy who only had one and a half trumps as many as I, so I re-doubled to give him moral support." Mrs. Baker promptly sneered and said, "You were the dummy, dear!"

Has any one seen this man? He won 147 medals in high school, is an expert motor-boat pilot and the champion tango dancer of Des Moines and a crooner, besides saving at least a score of persons from drowning. But, this same lad took an ex-North high gal to a recent college hop on a street car. If anyone sends in the correct answer as to who this modern Cellini is, he will receive a tin-foil bound copy of this windy
young man's newspaper clippings.

CLASS PLAYS BRIDGE

The French conversation class of Miss Gertrude Kincaide has been playing contract bridge. After they had studied the French conversation used during a game of bridge, the group decided to put their knowledge to practice.

Miss Diamond Directs Orchesis In Program of Creative Dancing

By RUTH WEMMER

A brilliant and varied program of creative dancing was given by the women's orchesis group Tuesday and Wednesday evenings before the students and friends of the University assembled in Jacobs' Hall. The recital was under the direction of Miss Ruth Diamond, assisted by Mrs. Harriet Benson.

The program opened with a militaristic dance. The girls were dressed in black leotards with red military bands across their shoulders. At the conclusion of the dance, the girls removed their bands and formed the letters U and O with their hands. It was an impressive sight, with the red letters against their black costumes.

Present Folk Rhythms

The next three numbers were folk rhythms. Two of them were given by the beginning creative dancing class; the first, Now 'Tis Christmas Time, in which the dancers were distinguished by red and green sashes, and the second, a folk rhythm arranged, entirely by the class. In the latter the girls made no sound upon the floor while dancing.

Miss Ruth Diamond gave a graceful interpretation as the soloist in the next dance, Oh Lord, Please Take Away the Darkness. The group was dressed in sack cloth costumes, and in a setting of dark draperies and lighted candles and dancing to the accompaniment of Miss Ida Gitlin's beautiful contralto voice the dancers deeply stirred the audience.

Following a short Scotch dance, in which the girls were dressed in plaids, and a highly emotional number, in which black costumes under blue and green lights were used, the Orchesis group gave a novel rhythmic study. There was no musical accompaniment to the number, only the voice of Miss Bess Greer, and occasionally the voices of the dancers, saying a poem in perfect rhythm.

The next group of dances included three comedy arrangements, The Band, Gossips, and Walks in the Rain. In the first, the girls carried out the characteristic movements of the drum major and the players in the band. The audience responded very enthusiastically to this group of dances.

Miss Diamond Dances

Gold and blue costumes and a percussion accompaniment featured the dance called Opposition. Tan gowns with brown fringe were worn in the following dance, an Indian rhythm creation. Dressed in a long flowing blue silk gown, Miss Diamond again appeared in a delightful interpretation of a prayer attitude.

Eight girls, who were members of the Orchesis group last year, which created a dance to an arrangement of Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue, gave a fine performance of the dance. This dance has been given before a number of athletic conventions and was a feature of the University's Male Day program last spring.

The final number of the program was Meditation, a dance accompanied by music of Bach, Gounod and Schubert. The dancers formed a lovely group with four dressed in grey as monks, and four gown-dressed in long blue robes on either side of a madonna in white. Miss Diamond took the part of the madonna.

Throughout the recital the dancers were ably accompanied by Miss Betty Fellman at the piano. The makeup of the dancers and the lighting were effectively done by the dramatic art students under the direction of Mrs. Jean Jarmin.

Five Years Ago

1. David Rubinoff, celebrated Russian violinist, played before a special student assembly.
2. Omaha University gridders lost the homecoming fracas with Wayne.
3. The newly organized Barb society chose the name of Paladins.
4. The Yale University Press presented the library with a consignment of books on political science, international relations, and economics, as a memorial to the late William Howard Taft and Arthur Twining Hadley, former president of Yale.

5. The University's football team showed its consistency by starting and finishing the season with scoreless ties.

Faculty Members At Conventions During Holidays

Color and Clothes By MARGERY NOE

Who . . . vacation . . . glamour . . . hectic days and romantic nights . . . and clothes. Formals are the current national problem. Every gal is tearing her hair trying to get something new and different.

Taffeta is tops! Taffeta can be styled so that you can look sweetly simple or elegantly sophisticated. Step up and choose your type. Or go half and half. Get a dress that is severely high in front and swoops down, down, in back.

Or, go Greek. Get one of those draped or pleated. They're gorgeous in soft crepes or chiffons (chiffon for winter is definitely in). They sort of flow from the neck to the feet—clinging here and there. The line is broken only by a wide girdle. Be careful about the color. It can't be as violent as with taffeta, but instead choose a soft, deep shade. The long pleats will do wonders for the short, chubby girl (and aren't we all).

Do your hair differently during vacation. Discard all reminders of school. Get out everything you own and give them the well known double "o."

Classes will be dismissed at 5 o'clock today for the Christmas recess. Classes will be resumed Monday, January 6, at 8 o'clock.

Football Mascot Seeks New Fields

First Down, the mascot of this year's football team, is now looking for new fields to seek thrills and gain glory. After seeing the football team through a successful season, he has gone in for dramatics.

Tuesday morning in Prof. Maxwell's Spanish class the dog provided sound effects in conjunction with a lesson about the diary of a dog which the students were endeavoring to translate. After a few sound effects and apparently a successful career, Prof. Maxwell ended all by stating: "Mr. Hansen, will you please urge him toward the door?"
